As the name suggests the glaze for volcano erupts with the dramatic hues of red and orange. This pattern comes alive in our kilns, which are fired at over 1000 degrees and it is at this point where the glaze begins to melt, the colours begin to move, much like lava over cold stones.

Volcano is not just a centrepiece; it is a conversation piece, which celebrates craft and design at its best.

Each piece is hand painted by the skilled Artisans and signed by the artists themselves. All pieces are proudly made in England.

With Poole Pottery you truly are purchasing a collectable of tomorrow.
